Donald –

Following up on my below email, assuming that you are comfortable with a conference call education session, would your presenter be available next Wednesday, January 4, beginning at 9:30AM?

Donald –

I hope the holidays have been good. I will review the list of questions provided in the attached email and let you know of any questions I have. Also, I will await your list of potential witnesses, database search terms, etc., you would like to provide.

Regarding the education session, we do not have access to video-conferencing, but can participate in a session via conference-call. If the session is less than 90 minutes and you send us materials to follow during the call, a conference call seems like a reasonable alternative to having someone make the difficult trip to State College.

Let me know if that works for you and I will confirm the best times for next week.

Regards,
Omar

Omar –

One option for the meeting next week with enforcement is a videoconference. Does your team have access to videoconference capabilities?
